

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An electronic still camera includes an image pickup element provided in an optically isolated space which is opened and closed by a shutter, and an image
5 pickup optical system which makes object light incident upon the image pickup element. An image pickup light path defined between the shutter and the image pickup element is sealed by a sealing member.